

Tracy Hallows

Born in Swindon in 1964, Tracy and her younger brother grew up with their father serving overseas. Their mum was a dedicated member of the local church. The family settled in Lancashire in 1969. A teacher since 1987, Tracy has two sons, Ben (33) and Tom (29). In 2006, she became a headteacher, serving in three church schools. Now, Tracy continues to serve God in a different role as a self-supporting assistant priest. She is both excited and nervous about stepping into a new role but is confident that this new direction is answering God's calling.
